

Introduction to Central/Eastern Europe:

The Culture of Dissent in Czechoslovakia, Poland, and Yugoslavia

"It was fantastic. I love Prof. Danaher."

"High energy, great readings, and a passion for the culture."

"Wow! Extremely engaging, analytical and still left room for you to think for yourselves. I thought about the course material a lot and had good conversations about it with others outside of class."

"Prof. Danaher is wonderful. He is engaging and the lectures were always interesting. I enjoyed the assignments even though he assigned a fair amount of work."

"Prof. Danaher was awesome! I liked that I learned so much about history and culture without feeling overwhelmed."

"This is the BEST professor I've had. So organized, so enthusiastic, so interesting. You could tell he loved this class."

"Prof. Danaher is by far one of the most passionate and involved professors at UW."

"I loved the course. Prof. Danaher appears to love what he teaches and that's motivating."

"I was hesitant at first with the structure and goals of the course, but as it went along I gained an appreciation for it. I thought Prof. Danaher was excellent – truly energized about the topic and very intellectual."

"I loved the course. By far, this was one of my favorite classes due to Prof. Danaher."

"Prof. Danaher is the best lecturer I have had to UW-Madison."

"The professor chosen for the class was ideal. He really showed passion for the subject."

"This course was much better than other intro classes that I've taken. In fact, one of the best classes I've ever taken."

"One of my favorite classes I've ever taken. It has definitely sparked in me a lifelong interest in the subject area."

"Great class! Dissident studies are a great way of learning history!"

"Let Prof. Danaher teach this course more often! I'd take anything he teaches."